In addition to this every year it conducts National Conferences / Seminars / Workshops in collaboration with other language departments.

About the Conference:

Literature has been a great source of expressing one's feelings. It has the ability to shape human character, change mind set and expose inner traits. Especially, Indian diaspora literature summarizes precisely a writer's temper, conflicts and doubts. It examines themes such as cross cultural conflicts, identity crisis, gender, violence surroundings, the problem of adjustment, predicament of characters, and condition of immigrants. It frequently presents the characters as survivors against the brutalities who are often victimized by various forms of social oppression. It invites readers to understand a fascinating study of the problem of displaced personalities in West and East.

The conference is organized with a view to create platform for academia, faculty, researchers and students to expose their critical knowledge of the past and current approaches in the field of Indian diaspora literature in English.
